

The Jeanne Clery Disclosure of Campus Security Policy and Campus Crime Statistics Act (20 USC § 1092(f)) is the landmark federal law, originally known as the Campus Security Act, that requires colleges and universities across the United States to disclose information about crime on and around their campuses.

Subsequent amendments in 2000 and 2008 added provisions dealing with registered sex offender notification and campus emergency response, respectively. The 2008 amendments also added a provision to protect crime victims, "whistleblowers", and others from retaliation.

HEOA expands the existing statement of policy on the law enforcement authority of campus security personnel to also include a disclosure about whether or not institutions have agreements, such as a written memorandum of understanding (MOU) with state & local police, for the investigation of alleged crimes.

The following Memorandum of Understanding is a written agreement between Clarkson University, the Campus Safety & Security Department and the Potsdam Police Department. While there are several local law enforcement agencies that could/would respond at Clarkson's request, Clarkson University is within the jurisdiction of the Potsdam Police Department. We work closely with and have maintained a good working relationship with them for many years.
